Federal construction funds likely for Hancock Schools

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board Wednesday evening authorized Superintendent Terry Randolph to proceed with applications which may lead to a $1.2 million federal grant for capital improvements in the district. The board authorized Randolph to study the possibility of filing an application for a grant under Public Law 815, a law which provides monies for construction in districts which record increased enrollment due to a large influx of federal employees' children.

Randolph filed for the funds twice before, once in 1972 when the law became applicable and again in 1977. He was turned down both times.

"The applications were turned down because the program did not have enough money," Randolph explained Thursday.

"Indian reservations were receiving top priority at the time," the superintendent added.

The funds, if obtained through the program, could enable the system to expand the proposed $300,000 'no frills' school being planned for construction in the south end of Hancock County, south of I-10 on US-90.

Randolph expressed optimism Thursday, stating that with the growth of Hancock County's National Space Technology Laboratories and construction of the U.S. Army Ammunition Plant, the county should qualify for the governmental money.

"The influx of these students has caused a burden on the school system because it was unexpected," Randolph said Thursday.

"Now with the advent of the Army Ammunition Plant and the continued growth of NSTL, we are receiving more and more federal students," he continued.

"With the influx of 25 people, we must add one classroom and a teacher. This program is designed to offset the school district's costs. It is government aid," Randolph added.

Randolph explained that a school district becomes eligible for the program by recording a three percent increase in enrollment of federal employees' children from the time an initial application is filed.

He said the Hancock County School District has recorded a six percent increase since first applying in 1972.

The superintendent added that federal employees include servicemen, government employees, subcontractors and private construction firms working on governmental project, and social security administrators.

As to whether the county will receive these funds, Randolph said the priority of the district's needs will need to be determined by the government.

Diamondhead residents air street complaints

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Planning Commission (HCPC) has authorized a visual inspection of all non-county roads in Diamondhead by County Engineer Don Murray.

The unanimous decision by the HCPC was prompted by complaints from some 25 people attending the November commission meeting Wednesday night.

A Diamondhead resident Robert Bond said, "The major complaint we have is the inequity that exists in the maintenance of Diamondhead streets."

"We've spent two to three months trying to get through to the powers-that-be in the Diamondhead office with no results," Bond explained.

Diamondhead resident Terry Watts showed HCPC members photographs of streets with protruding manhole covers, standing water and potholes.

"There are quite a few streets where there are no homes that have good streets which is an injustice to people who already live in Diamondhead on deteriorated streets," Watts said.

Diamondhead Vice-President and Project Manager Holcomb Hector said Friday, "I feel that the biggest complaint from residents is that they don't like the double bituminous surface paving we are doing."

"The surface has a gravel surface until traffic compresses it into hard pavement. It will take a while to compress in these residential areas because of relatively little traffic in these neighborhoods," Hector explains.

"The residents are comparing this surface to the hot mix surface used in other areas of Diamondhead, which initially looks better," Hector added.

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The goal of $35,000 for the 1979 Campaign of the United Way of Hancock County is $2,659 short according to reports by Campaign Chairman Mike Benvenuti.

"The United Way funds many County Agencies and must reach the $35,000 goal in order to have money to meet the budget of those agencies in 1980," Benvenuti said.

The United Way's income is from individual donations, payroll deductions, business, professional and corporate gifts.

CLOSE CALL—No injuries were reported after this car, driven by Randolph S. Ladner, 17, left Lakeshore Road Wednesday night, clipped off the corner of a building, and came to a stop under a two-ton steel-hulled boat in front of Carmel's Seafood in Lakeshore, according to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. The youth was cited for reckless driving by the Sheriff's Department. Although police reports indicate Ladner was in the car alone, witnesses said four other occupants fled the scene before police arrived. The driver told police he left the road because another car was approaching in his lane of traffic. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Teacher may be evicted from school-owned home

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School System's agricultural teacher who has resided for some 15 years rent and utility-free in a house on school property has been given until Nov. 30 to leave his home.

The Hancock County School Board voted Wednesday to evict D.J. Martin who resides in the home owned by the school district and located on the Hancock North Central campus.

Superintendent Terry Randolph said Thursday Martin has been informed of the deadline, and unless the vocational-agricultural teacher can produce a legal contract allowing him to remain at the home, he will be evicted at the end of the month.

Randolph said the home is needed for administrators and principals, but would not specify who will move into the residence.

"Several years ago a state law was passed which allowed the agricultural teacher to live in the house," Randolph said Thursday.

"That law was appealed some years ago, and now we need the house for administrators," he added.

The board has considered evicting Martin from the home for 5 years now, but just recently began serious moves to have the teacher vacate the house.

Board Member Monvel Cuevas objected to the board's decision to move Martin from his home during the school term and questioned the fairness of the board's actions.

He also questioned renewal of Martin's current teaching contract without formally advising him he might have to vacate the house before the end of the current term.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex was asked to investigate legal aspects of the eviction for a Nov. 24 meeting slated for 9 a.m. at the superintendent's office.

Board Members Louie, Oris, and Woodrow Ladner voted in favor of the eviction, with Cuevas voting against the action.

Illegal deer hunting reports unconfirmed

By RICH ADAMS

Recent reports of illegal 'headlighting' by deer hunters, hunting deer at night with the use of lights, were unconfirmed last week as Hancock County Conservation Officer Pat Toomey said he has had no reports of such activity.

However, the conservation officer noted, the unconfirmed reports may be the nighttime hunting of raccoon or nutria, which is legal in this state.

"What your reports may be are reports of headlighting by coon hunters, which is legal year-round, or nutria hunters, which is legal at this time," Toomey said Thursday.

"Regulations state that hunters headlighting must use dogs and may not use anything larger than number four shot," the officer continued.

"It's difficult to catch hunters illegally headlighting deer. We have to be in the right place at the right time. Most of these hunters are professionals and know what they are doing," he added.

"Usually these hunters go out between deer season and after the season has ended," Toomey explained.

Toomey said he and the other county conservation officers, formally referred to as game wardens, are enforcing all posting laws and issuing citations for violations.

"If a man posts his property against trespassers, we will cite all trespassers on that land without written permission to be on that property from the owner," Toomey said.

"If the hunters do not have written permission, they are subject to a fine ranging between $100 to $500," Toomey noted.

Toomey said anyone wishing to report a hunting violation may call him at 467-9800, C.J. Cameron at 255-1881, or Ronald Ladner at 255-7566.

Toomey is the conservation officer for the south end of Hancock County, while Cameron and Ladner are officers for the north end of the county.

Employment plunge laid to hurricane

The total employed area residents for the tri-county area of Hancock, Harrison, and Stone Counties dropped considerably in September, a drop which labor trend experts are contributing to damage incurred by Hurricane Frederic.

The number of area residents employed dropped some 1,100 persons between August of this year and September, according to the Mississippi State Employment Service.

The drop was primarily among wage and salaried persons who were employed outside the metro area, the employment service reports.

"This employment reduction can possibly be attributed to the heavy hurricane damage to employing establishments in neighboring Jackson County," according to the service.

The service reports that 61 percent of the total initial unemployment claims for unemployment compensation in September were disaster-related.

The total civilian labor force, which is described as the total number of unemployed and employed plus all persons involved in labor disputes but not including military personnel dropped 1,210 since August, 1978.

The unemployment rate went up from 5.9 percent to 6.0 percent between August and September, 1978, but remains below the 7.3 percent recorded a year ago in September, 1978.

Despite the slight raise in the unemployed rate, the employment service shows that 20 less persons were unemployed in September, 1978 as compared to August of this year.

The most significant increase in numbers employed during September of this year is in agricultural fields, where the number of persons jumped from 550 in August to 660 in September. Non-agricultural wage and salaried dropped 860 persons over the two-month period, while other non-agricultural, which includes domestic, self-employed, and unpaid family workers, dropped 440 since August, 1978, the service reported.

Hancock schools buy computer

By RICH ADAMS

A $20,500 computer system, which Superintendent Terry Randolph says will make the bookkeeping department in the Hancock County School System "much more efficient," was purchased by the Hancock County School Board last week.

The board approved the purchase of the payroll computer from Wang Laboratories of Lowell, Mass. through Data Processing consultants of Hatfield.

Randolph said Thursday the computer is being purchased with local district funds, and added the purchase was not included in the 1980 budget.

The superintendent said the computer system can be expanded to include computerization of report cards, attendance records, and student activity funds for each school in the

INSULATION

Keeping your home cool in summer and warm in winter is mostly a matter of keeping out the summer heat and the winter cold, so your cooling and heating system can operate efficiently.

Insulation in the attic, side walls and under the floor does more than anything else to seal your home against extreme outdoor temperatures. Insulation prevents passage of heat through the walls, keeping you more comfortable year round, and most likely lowering your utility bills noticeably.

WENDELL LADNER

"We contacted more than 60 teams, including Slidell, Moss Point, Gulfport, d'Iberville, Pass Christian, St. Stanislaus, and Bay St. Louis," Ahlers said Thursday.

"After weeks of trying, we finally, with the assistance of Irvin Favre and HNC Principal Thad Haskins, found the two teams which will agree to participate in the contest," he added.

Favre said Thursday the Hawks, with a 4-6 overall record should give the 7-3 Pearl River squad a good game.

"It should be a very close game," the head coach said.

We were having problems finding a team which would play in the bowl. Rather than see the program fold, we decided to play in it," Favre continued.

"I just hope people will turn out for the game. The money is for a needy cause, and we need the bowl game here in Hancock County," he added.

Highlighting the Hawks performance should be Sophomore running back Lloyd Henry, who was 30 yards short of turning in a 1,000-yard season this week.

The bowl is a memorial to the late Wendell Ladner, an outstanding HNC athlete who went on to a career in professional basketball.

Ladner was killed in an airplane crash on June 24, 1975, and was posthumously named to the University of Southern Mississippi Hall of Fame in 1978.

He played for the Louisiana Buccaneers, Memphis Pros, Kentucky Colonels and New York Nets.

Gametime is at 7:30 p.m. at HNC Hawk Stadium.

Manning the concession stand at the game will be present and future Hancock County office holders, including Chancery Court Clerk-Elect Mike Necessaire, Superintendent Terry Randolph, Justice Court Judge-Elect Bruce Necessaire, Judge Lloyd Anderson, and District Three Supervisor-Elect Roger Dale Ladner.

Any other county politicians wishing to assist in the concession stand are urged to contact Ahlers.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER & CROP REPORT

Mississippi farmers may have to contend with an increase in rainy weather in November, according to the National Weather Service Outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The monthly outlook is calling for wetter than usual conditions and above normal temperatures, say agrometeorologists at the Environmental Studies Service Center in Stoneville who prepared the report.

This may create for cotton and soybean producers. At the start of November, more than half of the soybean and cotton crops must still be harvested. Wet weather will cause long delays in harvesting because of short daylight hours. Farmers will need to manage time wisely and make full use of good harvesting days.

Freezing temperatures have already occurred on some extreme north Mississippi farms. Although most of the state usually receives a 32 degree temperature by the tenth of the month, the expected above normal temperatures could delay freezing temperatures past the normal date in many areas.

A few farmers have completed harvest and are preparing land for winter grains or next year's crop. Land preparation may be important because of wet, warm weather.

Subsoiling will help prevent erosion by allowing water to soak in rather than run off. Stalk cutting will help eliminate a harbor for overwintering insects.

Warm wet weather is just what cool season pastures need. Although pastures and winter grains had to survive dry weather in October, most areas should receive adequate moisture by early November.

Warmer than normal temperatures will keep winter grains developing well ahead of winter.

Fall calving should also be easier in mild weather. Cattlemen should watch for damp conditions which could spell trouble, especially for heifers and cows in poor condition, caution the weather experts.

Bits 'n pieces

We hope there will be a big turnout Wednesday night for the annual Wendell Ladner Memorial Bowl sponsored by the Central Hancock Jaycees.

Hancock-North Central Hawks and Pearl River, La. football teams are equally matched, and a good game should be provided for the fans.

As we all know, the benefit game sponsored by the Jaycees is for a very worthy cause and hope a lot will lend their support by being there Wednesday night.

The game will be played in Hawk Stadium.

A typical government move was made last Thursday when the Veterans Administration increased by three times the amount of cigarettes which could be purchased by hospital patients.

The most significant thing was the fact it was supposed to be the day dedicated to the "Great American Smokeout."

It seems that anything Washington has something to do with nowadays-always is done in reverse.

We hope many of you will take the opportunity of attending the Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition Tuesday at the Wheel-Inn Restaurant.

The guest speaker, Stewart E. McHie of Exxon, should have comments of interest to all of us, since we all face the high price of gas.

Preparations have been underway for sometime for the Community Thanksgiving Services which will be held Tuesday night at the Assembly of God Church on Arnold Street, Waveland.

The Ministerial Association should be commended on their efforts. Many of the ministers of the area will participate in the special services.

We hope all of us will remember the many things we can be thankful for and attend the services.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL
THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Members of the Mississippi Economic Council's Board of Directors will talk about specific steps for advancing Mississippi's economy when the Board meets in Jackson on Tuesday, November 20.

They will also talk about the growth of local government, improvements in education, and the state's tax structure.

All these items have been placed on the agenda as a result of work by MEC's general committees over the past several months.

The Board meeting will be held November 20 at the Holiday Inn Downtown in Jackson.

"We will hear reports and recommendations from each of the Council's general committees," said MEC President Benton Cain of Jackson, who will preside at the semiannual meeting. "We also will lay the groundwork for the Council's efforts during the 1980 legislative session and we will elect officers for the 1980-81 Council year."

Committees and committee chairmen expected to make reports to the Development, Gaines M. Rogers, Dean, College of Business and Industry, Mississippi State University; Education, D.B. Massengale, Jr., a Pascagoula industrialist; Free Enterprise, J. Marlin Ivey, a Kosciusko businessman; Leadership Mississippi, James Carr, a Jackson business executive; Resource Development, Tom Parry, a Yazoo City industrialist; Small Business, W.W. Gresham, Jr., an Indiana businessman; State and local Government, Lewis Whiffield, a Tupelo banker; Taxation, Rhine Neubert, a Jackson CPA; and Transportation, Ray K. Smith, a Greenville banker.

"We expect to consider reports which have taken months in preparation concerning education accountability, local government, sales tax, and economic development," said Cain. "And we will consider a resolution on recent court action concerning pollution control which will be presented by the Resource Development Committee.

"MEC's 88-member Board of Directors, a cross section of business and professional leaders in the state, is selected from and represents every geographical area of the state," said Cain.

Congressman THAD COCHRAN'S Washington Report

Young Mississippians interested in seeking entrance into one of the nation's five military academies should contact U.S. Senator Thad Cochran and express their interest as soon as possible.

The Senator urged interested young Mississippians between the ages of 17 and 21 to write his office as soon as possible if they are seeking admission to any of the five service academies in the Summer of 1980.

He emphasized that his nominations to the academies will be based "solely on merit" on the ability of the prospective nominee to meet the high academic, physical and leadership standards set by the institutions themselves."

Senator Cochran is authorized to make nominations to four of the military academies, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y. The fifth academy, the U.S. Coast Guard Academy at New London, Ct., does not require Congressional nomination for entrance.

The Senator noted that nominations to the academies must be submitted by the end of the year, December, and that prospective nominees should contact his office now.

Those interested should write:

Health Tip

Nonsmokers Demand Right to Clean Air

Is there anyone around today who doesn't know that smoking cigarettes is bad for the health? That cigarettes can make you very sick? That they can kill you?

If so, he or she must be a hermit who has lived for the past 20 years in complete isolation from all others.

The serious and dangerous health results of smoking have been thoroughly aired to the American public for many years. Tobacco smoking shortens life. It is a major cause of lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and chronic bronchitis. It is associated with other cancers, with increased risk of stroke and other circulatory diseases.

Many Americans have got the message and have quit smoking. American doctors, who see the dire effects of smoking in their patients, have led the field in stopping smoking, and only a small minority of physicians now use tobacco.

This year the American Medical Association is stepping up its long effort to inform the public of the health hazards of smoking and to urge smokers to quit, or nonsmokers not to start.

The smoker knows he or she is damaging his or her health. Smokers may claim a right to pursue their habits, but nonsmokers have at least as much right to clean air, especially in confined places like airplanes, meeting rooms and restaurants.

A person doesn't have to be a smoker himself to suffer ill effects from cigarettes. A nonsmoker in the company of a smoker breathes in smoke from the burning end of the cigarettes as well as the exhaled smoke. Some people have allergic responses to tobacco smoke and may suffer smoke-caused asthma attacks.

Nonsmokers find that tobacco smoke causes eye irritation, nasal symptoms, headache and coughing. Inhaling second-hand smoke increases the heart rate, blood pressure and level of carbon monoxide in the blood. This is particularly dangerous for those with heart and respiratory conditions.

If smoking is a personal right, it carries with it the responsibility of respecting the rights of the nonsmoker too.

Hospital Association official reports nursing shortage

November 13, 1979

Sea Coast Echo
Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Another school year is underway, and thousands of young Mississippians are about to make career decisions which will affect the rest of their lives.

Some will have to go to other states, because they will, unfortunately, find little or no opportunity in Mississippi in their chosen field.

A striking exception to this is nursing. Mississippi hospitals have well over 1,000 vacancies for nurses if the people were available to fill those slots.

Nursing salaries in Mississippi are comparable to those in the other southeastern states, and nursing is a rewarding career, in terms of human service, as well.

Young Mississippians entering nursing will find rewarding career opportunities in or near their own home-town. They will not have to leave the state.

If they have a diploma or degree as a registered nurse, they can get a job in virtually any town or city in the state—or in the nation. This is not true in other professions.

If they enter nursing at a lower level and want to advance professionally, many Mississippi hospitals will pay their tuition for this purpose.

The Mississippi Hospital Association is concerned about the nursing shortage and wants young people to be aware of the career opportunities currently existing in this field.

I have the honor to be the chairman of the MHA Task Force on Nursing, and in this capacity, I hope to interest people in hospital careers.

Young men and women in junior-high and in high-schools make up a large reservoir of potential nursing talent-Mississippians willing to serve their fellow Mississippians.

Highly motivated licensed practical nurses make up a reservoir of potential higher-level nurses if they can find programs designed for their upward mobility.

Youngsters who want to know more about nursing careers can get this data at Mississippi's 22 schools of nursing at their nearest hospital.

In many hospitals, the dedicated ladies (and a few men) who make up the hospital "auxiliary" are eager to answer questions about hospital-nursing career opportunities.

Many hospitals have "Career Day" events during National Hospital Week in May—and can provide career data, upon request, any day of the year.

We want young Mississippians to know that our hospitals need them and can offer them a rewarding career near home if they enter the field of nursing.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

You recently gave several tips on coping with the higher cost of living, but didn't mention energy costs. This is one major problem. We're Afraid, Uncomfortable and Broke.

Dear WAUB: You're right, of course, and the reason for the apparent oversight is there are no easy answers. And most of the hard ones have already been well publicized.

Unfortunately, given us built homes where energy companies were encouraging usage through promotional rates.

And one of the basic distinguishing characteristics of the United States citizenry is their extreme mobility which has, to our knowledge, led us to a more sophisticated and freer people than the world has thus far produced.

Hence lies a part of the problem. Deep down, if we are truly honest, most of us feel that abundant and affordable energy is as much an inalienable right as freedom of speech, press, assembly and to bear arms.

We did not get this way of our own volition, however. The idea was sold to us through the advertising efforts of those companies whose goal was to accomplish increased usage.

And most of their efforts to turn us around have been relatively half-hearted and short-lived.

Now the task is to sell us new more energy efficient appliances and transportation. But most of these purchases other than for necessary replacement, would exceed any savings they might produce for the near future.

So be skeptical of new devices and secret formulas. Most of the solutions for each of us is a commonsense approach to energy utilization.

Use your newspaper ads to shop. It cuts down on your transportation costs.

Buy an intelligent shopper where insulation and other energy saving contrivances are concerned. Study and compare R-values for insulation in local ads. And watch for special promotions after you know what you want and don't want!

For day to day prices on all energy sources and energy saving devices vary and your local ads will be the best source for the latest information.

But you must become a discriminating consumer. For example, cheap gasoline may cost more in increased consumption, loss of efficiency and long term detriment to your engine. So using less, but good quality gasoline of the proper rating would be more feasible. To use less, drive less and avoid fast takeoffs, excessive speed and prolonged idling.

Tigers fumble away chance for even season

By RANDY PONDER

Leading 14-0 going into the third quarter, the St. Martin Yellow Jackets scored on two fumble recoveries deep in Bay High territory and went on to win the game 26-14.

The fumbles proved to be the difference in the Friday night contest as the Tigers scored 14 points in the final period.

At the end of the first quarter, the Yellow Jackets had a 6-0 lead following a 59 yard scoring drive aided by several penalties.

The second period saw St. Martin add to its lead when Quarterback Morris Hitt scored from the one.

This time the two point conversion was good to give the Yellow Jackets a 14-0 advantage.

During this drive the Tigers were slapped with a non-sportsman like conduct penalty following an apparent fumble recovery.

The Bay High players continued to run the football back to the St. Martin goal after officials had whistled the ball dead.

It was ruled that the ball had not been fumbled, much to the dismay of the Tiger players and fans alike.

Sloppy play by the Tigers gave St. Martin two touchdowns in the third quarter following fumbles on their own 18 and then 14 yard lines.

The two attempts after each score were stopped.

The final period began with the Tigers trailing 26-0.

The first Bay High score came after Brett Barrett recovered a fumble to stop a Yellow Jacket drive on the Tiger 12.

The visiting Tigers marched 88 yards to the end zone. Allen Proulx got the touchdown on an 11 yard run. The try for two was blocked.

Bay High was on the board 26-6.

Quarterback Don Ginn, who came in off the bench late in the game, scored for the Tigers late in the game following a 59 yard drive.

Chuck Benigno scored on the two point try with a handoff from Ginn for the final points of the game.

"Our seniors had a great game. I hate to see them go out on a losing note, but they all played good as they have all season. We could have won if not for those key mistakes," commanded Coach James (Snuffy) Smith.

The Tigers end their season with a 4-6 record.

NOWHERE TO GO—Allen Proulx no. 31 is tackled after short gain. Stopping the play is Gary Davis no. 62, with help from several other St. Martin players. Proulx carried the ball for 77 yards, more than tiger quarterback Chuck Benigno. Bay HI had 14 first downs compared to 9 for the yellow jackets. As a team, the tigers rushed for 164 yards and passed for 25 more. (Staff photo: Randy Ponder)

Hawks win in overtime

A foul shot by Don Moran with no time remaining on the clock in overtime gave the Hancock North Central Hawks a win over Harrison Central in their opening hardcourt meet of the year.

The shot came during the Tuesday night match at Harrison Central following a foul by Harrison Central's Joe Rowley.

The game went into overtime after the Hawks Senior Netter Moses Hill blocked a Harrison Central goal with three seconds remaining on the clock in regulation play.

Byron Ladner was high scorer with 18 points, followed closely by Steve Nunn with 17.

Moses Hill also scored in double figures with 13 points.

Joe Rowley was high scorer for the Harrison five with 20 points.

Hancock led 19-17 at the end of the opening period, 39-32 at halftime, trailed 50-48 at the end of the third stanza, and the score was tied 61-61 at the end of regulation play.

BIGGEST MINNOW

Minnows are some of the most interesting fish in the world. Nearly 2,000 species have been identified by biologists.

The fish live in almost any kind of water that will support fish life, and are found on every continent except South America and Australia.

While most minnow species seldom reach a size greater than an ounce or so, and some grow to weigh nearly a pound, Mercury outboards' fishing department reports that at least two members of the minnow family attain great size.

Rocks end football year with loss to Vancleave

WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws lost their final 1979 football game to Vancleave Friday evening at Bulldog stadium 13-0.

The game was scoreless until about the end of the first half when SSC Quarterback Joe Gex's pass was intercepted by Bulldog Tailback Mark Warren.

The interception sparked a combined 36 yard drive by Vancleave Quarterback Mike Seymour and Warren for the first touchdown 29 seconds before the half.

But the Bulldogs failed to make conversion points when officials called for a replay after an SSC penalty.

SSC came back strong in the third quarter pushing within inches of the goal line. But with seconds left in the third quarter Vancleave's defensive line stonewalled the Rock's scoring attempts.

The Bulldogs opened the fourth quarter, with a relatively consistent running game, controlling the Rock's offensive and defensive efforts.

Vancleave's defense set up the second Bulldog touchdown after Stanislaus bungled one of several fake kick attempts during the second half.

The Bulldogs regained control of the ball on the SSC 29 yard line hammering downfield for their second touchdown and extra point conversion two minutes before the end of their homecoming game.

Both SSC Coach Barry Jones and Vancleave Coach Alton Waltman commented that the turning point in the game was Vancleave's goal line defensive stand at the end of the third quarter.

Jones said, "This was the first time in several weeks we've had a good team effort. After the first half we felt we would win the ball game and we wanted to win this game. But we got our backs to the wall and couldn't punch it out."

"I congratulate the Vancleave defensive team for the fine goal line stand they made which was the turning point of the game," Jones added.

Waltman explained, "Our kids reached back and did a little extra tonight. Offensively and defensively we did a good job in the second half but there was no question this was a good hard-fought football game."

Figures compiled by SSC Statistician Hank Logan show that the Rocks were slightly ahead statistically in every category except for points.

In passing SSC gained 43 yards to Vancleave's 19 yards. Rushing the Rocks showed 162 yards to the Bulldog's 120 yards.

Eight first downs were made by Stanislaus as compared to Vancleave's six first downs.

SSC had six penalties losing 40 yards with the Bulldogs showing five penalties for a loss of 45 yards.

The game culminated the Rock's 1979 football season with a record of 5-5 overall and a 2-4 record for their conference standing.

Vancleave also ended their football season with a 7-2 record overall and 4-2 conference record.

Telling tall tales was pre-TV amusement

Back in 1900 there were few sources of amusement - No radio to listen to, no TV to look at, no cars to take one quickly to games or other diversions, no Sunday newspapers and very few of any kinds of papers, no picture magazines, no picture shows to pass the time away. An old lady more than 90 years old told me, "We had none of these modern sources of entertainment and news when I grew up at Gainesville. "But," she said, "If there was juicy gossip or bad news of any kind, it would spread in the old days as it does today with all our modern inventions."

A never-failing source of amusement in 1900 was the telling of tall tales, as for instance this one as told by Gene Loveless of Rt. 2, Carriere, who is chock full of old time stories: An old timer went to see a lawyer about getting a divorce.

The lawyer asked the man, "Do you have any grounds?" "Sure, I have grounds," was the reply, "I have 40 acres of the best land in the county."

"Does your wife ever beat you up?" asked the lawyer.

"No," the old man said, "I bet her up every morning, I get up before day light and she gets up about an hour later."

Odd stories or unusual stories were told and retold when old timers met up with one another.

M. M. Roberts of Hattiesburg, now an attorney there, but formerly a school teacher, sent me these unusual rules for 1915 school teachers. Since I was a teacher at Poplarville at that time, I am familiar with the strict rules for teachers.

Here are the rules Mrs. Roberts sent taken from a 1915 teacher's magazine listing the following rules of conduct for teachers of that day:

You will not marry during the term of your contract.

You are not to keep company with men.

You must be home between the hours of 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. unless attending a school function.

You may not loiter downtown in any of the ice cream stores.

You may not travel beyond the city limits without permission of the chairman of the board.

You may not smoke cigarettes.

You may not dress in bright colors.

You may under no circumstances dye your hair.

You must wear at least two petticoats.

Your dress must not be any shorter than two inches above the ankle.

To keep the school room neat and clean, you must sweep at least once daily, scrub the floor at least once a week with hot soapy water; clean the blackboards at least once a day; and start the fire at 7 a.m. so the room will be warm by 8 a.m.

A common source of "having fun" in the old days was to tell comical jokes on one another and to play pranks or tricks of a frolicsome nature. Some of the pranks played were pretty rough, which is true of the one that follows:

An old timer many years ago told me this joke, if you want to call it that, which took place in the Buck Branch community in Northwest Pearl River County.

A young fellow about 20 years old sometime around 1900, attended Big Meeting at the Bethel Baptist Church.

He rode horse back about 22 miles from his home to attend the services at this old time church on this biggest day of the year in that community.

The big attraction that caused this young man to make this hard trip, and it was a pretty girl he had met sometime before who lived near this church.

reactions for a short time, the crowd howled in laughter at his discomfiture. When the young man realized what had happened he "bashfully" laughed with the others, showing himself to be a good sport.

I am sure the young people reading this will wonder why he had saddle bags and what they were. They were used for the same purpose a hand bag is used for today. In this case the young man had brought along a clean shirt, which he had put on after his long ride.

I failed to get the names but my informer told me that this young couple got married a short time after this.

area complained that streets are sinking in areas after being paved for about two weeks and brought automobile repair bills they claimed were caused by holes in the streets.

Diamondhead residents are also fearful that when streets are eventually turned over to the Diamondhead Property Owners Association they will be facing extensive road repairs.

Hector said, "We are aware of standing water and potholes in the General Homes area which is the case everywhere. We have a constant program of repair but we have no written obligation to bring these roads up to standard when we turn them over to the community."

"As far as I'm concerned the roads in the General Homes area have been completed and anything that General Homes has promised to people we are not aware of," Hector commented.

Al Dussan, president of the Diamondhead Community Association commented, "Three weeks ago we met with Diamondhead officials and we threatened a class action suit. We had a complete turnaround in response. Since then we feel they've done a lot on Apaway Street, the golf course and other streets. But we have to keep behind them for continued response."

"We are paying the majority of taxes in the county, why can't we get our share of services," Dussan inquired?

Commission President James Rester explained, "The county only has one road dedicated to the county in Diamondhead, all other roads are not the responsibility of Hancock County."

Murray explained, "I know that some streets don't meet county specifications but, we can't do anything to stop Diamondhead from putting in standard roads unless a road is subject to dedication to the county."

Hector said, "We've worked with Mr. Murray on numerous occasions and have a letter from him stating that our roads meet county standards, but we are not aware that some roads are substandard."

"I agree with residents and feel the Diamondhead streets should be dedicated to the county so they will get county services for the taxes they pay," Hector said.

Rester stated, "In 1969 we met with Diamondhead officials and they said Hancock County would never have to worry about maintaining the roads in Diamondhead."

"Before any roads are accepted by the county for maintenance they have to be brought in line with state and county specifications," Rester added.

The residents also complained they

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Kathleen Asher, organist. An archway decorated with yellow, pink and blue flowers centered the church. The Unity candle adorned with a white bow and mini pastel flowers and orange blossoms was lighted by the couple following the ceremony.

The bodice and cuffs were embellished with sequins, pearls and beading. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held by a lace Juliet cap. She wore a strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of white silk carnations interspersed with yellow, pink and blue silk flowers.

State park is setting for Mitchell, Gex rites

Natural autumn surroundings provided the outdoor setting at Wall Doxey State Park for a recent afternoon ceremony uniting Linda Denise Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Mitchell of Sardis, and Guy Stephen Gex, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Gex, Jr., of Picayune.

Nuptial vows were exchanged in a double-ring ceremony September 30 at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Paul Harris, pastor, of Jackson, officiating.

Laced with ivy and decked by amber mums, the alter archways and kneeling rail were hand-made by the groom. The wedding party entered the ceremony area through natural arches of aged oak trees. The procession was directed down a stone path enclosed by a rough wood railing.

Musical selections were provided by pianist Tommy Bridges, and vocalist Beth Bailey of Sardis sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress handmade by her mother of candlelight sheer organza, flocked with white rosebuds and featuring a jewel neckline.

The long bell sleeves, tied at the wrists with satin streamers, were edged with embroidered scalloped lace. The softly gathered skirt was accented by a satin sash and bordered with matching lace.

The chapel length veil of candlelight chiffon and embroidered lace was held in place by a Juliet cap covered in lace and seed pearls.

She carried an elegant cascading silk bouquet of candlelight gardenias and rosebuds with white lily of the valley, sweet peas, stephanotis, bell flowers and baby's breath, with white satin streamers.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Erin Schideler of Ft. Collins, Co. Bridesmaids were Robbie Williams of Wall Doxey State Park, Barbara Pierce of Nesbit, Miss., and Rebecca McKinney of New Orleans, La.

They wore two-piece ensembles of candlelight voile scattered with flowers of nutmeg, cinnamon and gold. Border accent on the full skirts was cinnamon satin ribbons, and the overblouses were gathered at the waist with a matching sash.

Hairpieces were of matching bouquet flowers, and they carried sprays of mixed fall silk flowers on natural leaf fans.

Sandy Bridges of Sardis served as flower girl, wearing a dress matching that of the bridesmaids and carrying a natural basket of fall silks matching the bridesmaid's bouquets.

The groom chose as best man his brother Kerry Glenn Gex of Hattiesburg.

Groomsmen were Tom Patten of Tishomingo State Park, Eddie Williams of Wall

Doxey State Park, and Dennis Mitchell, brother of the bride, of Sardis.

Ringbearers were Charlie Bridges of Sardis and Paul Lacoste, cousin of the groom, of Jackson.

Rice girls were Sandy Bridges and Shannon Spencer of Sardis, who presented scrolls to the guests prior to the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mitchell chose a long dress of Mauve Quilana, and wore a silk orchid corsage. Mrs. Gex wore a beige voile ankle length dress accented by a corsage of silk camellias.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the park lodge. Magnolia leaves, fern balls, and English ivy decorated the lodge reception room. Natural wooded surroundings formed a lovely backdrop for the occasion.

Candles were abundant in the windows, over the rough stone fireplace, and on the tables.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and held the tiered wedding cake and was centered in front of a large bay window overlooking the wooded lakeshore.

Silver punch bowls and candleabra entwined with ivy and autumn flowers adorned adjacent tables. The chocolate groom's cake was decorated depicting the groom's occupation and hobbies.

Following a wedding trip to the Mississippi Gulf Coast the couple is residing at Wall Doxey State Park where the groom is employed as assistant park manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Gex Jr. entertained approximately 50 guests with a rehearsal supper cook-out on Saturday evening at the picnic pavilion at the park.

Galloway home featured on Civic League tour

The Gulfport Civic League's 20th annual Holiday Tour of Homes will be Sunday, Dec. 9, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Four residences in Gulfport, Northwood Hills, and Pass Christian will be open to the public.

A donation of $2 for each ticket to this fund raising project sponsored by the league to provide for handicapped children and adults in Harrison County.

Members assist at the Crippled Children's Clinic each month and provide funds for medical needs, glasses, hearing aids, braces, etc.

The four homes which will be shown this year are those of Mr. and Mrs. C.D. Galloway, 403 St. Charles, Northwood Hills, Gulfport; Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Bullock, 5 Pinewood Court, Northwood Hills; Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Puckett, 1118 East Beach Blvd., Gulfport; and Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Billups, 625 Scenic Drive (East Beach) Pass Christian.

Markers will direct visitors to each Holiday Home. Tickets may be obtained from Civic League members or purchased at the door of each home on the tour.

The Galloway home will be the hospitality house, where refreshments will be served.

Double doors with matching holly wreaths, tied with red velvet bows, open into the flagstone entry hall which provides a view of the patio, pool, and enclosed back lawn.

A wrought iron gate leading into the patio is flanked by potted trees decorated with red velvet ribbons.

The hallway to the left is entered through stained glass doors and leads to the living dining area.

Of special interest is a painting, done by the hostess's great grandmother in 1890 which hangs over the piano.

A pecanwood breakfast which matches the dining furniture contains china, silver, and crystal pieces which are heirlooms.

Mrs. Galloway's great great grandmother's cream and sugar set and a silver pitcher which was a 25th wedding anniversary gift to her grandparents are of special interest.

Members of the Galloway's travels such as wine glasses from Russia and a wine decanter from Ireland are included.

Mural on the dining area wall is a contemporary design with colors accenting the white walls and green carpeting.

The kitchen is planned for step saving convenience and is bright and cheerful with its blue, white, and avocado decor.

It leads into the paneled family room where the informal dining area in the bay window overlooks the pool.

A Tiffany lamp hangs over the table. Comfortable couches and lounge chairs provide a welcoming atmosphere for conversation and television.

Santa Claus, with his bag of toys, dominates the wall above the couch.

Of special interest are paintings done by Mrs. Galloway and those of her friend, Mrs. W.W. Cox.

A most unusual porcelain plant stand on which is displayed an arrangement of gilded grapes and ferns is another interesting item.

The family room opens into the patio and pool area, inviting with its wrought iron and glass tables and chairs.

Mrs. Galloway will be assisted in serving by Mrs. Bazil Noble; Tea House chairman, Mrs. Robert Kuttner; Mrs. J.B. Ellisor and Mrs. Metro Bond, Civic League members; and Mrs. W.W. Cox, a close friend.

Meeting guests at the door will be Mrs. W.W. Van Skiver, ticket chairman; Mrs. Cooper J. Darby, and Mrs. Simmons.

Mrs. Harry Woodbury is tour chairman, with Mrs. Wilfred Simmons as radio and tv publicity and Mrs. Harold Perlman as press publicity chairmen.

NSTL employees mark Federal Women's Week

Several hundred employees at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL) observed Federal Women's Week at a series of seminars and panel discussions at the installation this month.

The week-long program was sponsored by the NSTL Federal Women's Program Managers Council, comprised of representatives of all federal agencies at NSTL.

NASA's Ann Westendorf, council chairman, said, "This is the most comprehensive program we've ever had. The success of Federal Women's Week is due in large part to the endorsement of NSTL agency managers.

Other topics included time management, goal setting, flextime, child care centers, the federal women's program, motivation and career patterns.

Joining Hlass in discussing NSTL issues were Capt. Wallace Palmer, commanding officer, Naval Oceanographic Office; Martha Cummings, Naval Oceanographic Office, and Jerry Reshev, Naval Oceanography Command.

Visiting speakers for the programs were Joseph Paul, assistant to the vice president of student affairs, University of Southern Mississippi Sandra Northrop, director, Women's Center of Greater New Orleans; Loyola University; Myron Webb, NSTL coordinator, University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park; Barbara Fincher, appeals classification officer, Office of Personnel Management; and Velma Strode, director, equal employment opportunity, Dept. of Labor.

In her comments about the future of the federal women's program, Ms. Strode said, "Maybe ten years from now, we'll be talking about an Equal Employment Opportunity Week, which will encompass the federal women's program, the Hispanic program and all the other programs. Then we will be celebrating the utilization of talent."

In addition to NASA, sponsors of the Federal Women's Week program were the U.S. Geological Survey; Naval Oceanographic Office; Commander, Naval Oceanography Command; Defense Contract Administration Services; Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity; U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration; U.S. Army Arment Research and Development Command; and the Bayou Chapter of Federally Employed Women.

There's an Answer!

Dead wife's spirit?

Q. My wife passed away, and I miss her so terribly. She was a most unusual and wonderful person. She gave love that was deeper than one can imagine. Is she here or near here, or is she a billion miles away?

A. Where is your dear wife? Stuart Edward White's book, The Unobstructed Universe, has in it an illustration about the blades of an electric fan. The blades being solid, you cannot see through them. But turn the fan on full speed and it becomes possible to see through, due to the higher frequency.

is superimposed upon this life and goes on in the same space, though at a higher frequency? This may explain why cases are reported where people seemed to see loved ones or hear their voices.

No, certainly your wife is not a billion miles away, but actually near. She is in God's care and so are you. And remember the poet Lowell's great line: "Love can never lose its own."

Pulpit Points

BY DR. L.S. WALKER
ALCOHOL IS OUR NUMBER ONE DRUG PROBLEM!

Neither the warning of the medical profession, the pleading of law enforcement officials, nor the counsel of God deters our society from the continued and increased consumption of alcohol as a beverage.

In 1933, the 18th amendment to the Constitution was repealed by the United States Congress. Like manipulated puppets, we joined in singing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Now some 46 years later, we sadly realize that we should have been singing "The Worst Is Yet To Come."

What has been the results of making booze legally accessible and advertised as the "sophisticated style of the smart set?"

Recent studies on the subject inform us that we now have over 10 million problem drinkers in America.

These not only disrupt their own lives but also affect the lives of as many as 40 million family members and friends.

A sense of low productivity, poor judgement, inefficiency in general—all these effects of problem drinkers cost business and government (tax-payers) an estimated $10 billion a year.

That is not all! There are more than 25,000 alcohol-related traffic fatalities; 15,000 alcohol-related homicides and suicides; 20,000 other fatalities due to alcohol-related accidents; and two million arrests for simply drunkenness recorded every year.

The bane of booze is a tragedy! Despite all its detours, liquor has no valid nor legitimate defense. One out of every 10 U.S. workers is an alcoholic, resulting in an estimated $25 billion-a-year drain on the economy.

With all these statistics, as depressing as they are, the baneful effect of alcohol as a beverage and its human consumption, is not fully reflected.

Its true destruction is measured in terms of human

St. Monica Guild explores stained glass techniques

By JOE PILET
The wonders of stained glass were explored Monday when the St. Monica Guild, Women of Trinity Church of Pass Christian, met in the home of Mrs. Houston Minniece.

Mrs. Rosemond Wallace, program director, traced the history of stained glass and conducted an open forum on the subject.

"The Egyptians discovered the use of stained glass as early as 3,000 years ago," Mrs. Wallace said.

Explaining how stained glass windows are made, Mrs. Wallace said the artist first paints a sketch, then makes a drawing to scale (the drawing is called a cartoon), paints in the drawing, cuts colored glass in jigsaw fashion and fits them painstakingly into position.

As a visual aid complementing her explanation, Mrs. Wallace showed splendid colored illustrations of windows, naming especially the Cathedrals of Aixburg in Germany and Chartres, France.

"These windows were created in the early part of the 11th century," Mrs. Wallace said.

She explained that early windows of stained glass were created to tell some religious story found in the Old and New Testaments.

Light filtering through the colored glass gives a life-like glow to the subjects, she added.

"In later periods the artists introduced symbols, flowers and educationally oriented designs," she explained.

The works and the life of Louis Comfort Tiffany was traced.

BAND SUPPORTERS—The Tiger Pride Band supporters bazaar offered a variety of items in addition to haunted house. A potted plant booth was one of the main attractions. Among those helping at the booth were Lucille Carvin, left, Pat Monti, Mary Monti and Angela Monti. The haunted house and bazaar was conducted Saturday and Sunday before Halloween. Proceeds from the two day events went towards the Bay High Tiger Pride Band. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

THE FIZZLE FAMILYPUGGY*USM researcher eyeing unusual shrimp found near Bay waters

Gary Anderson, an associate professor of biology at the University of Southern Mississippi, has embarked on a research project that could prove freshwater shrimp farming would be a lucrative new cash crop for Mississippians.

Anderson is conducting research on two extremely large species of shrimp that have been found in fresh water areas near the coast. He plans to assess the availability of these shrimp and their potential for aquaculture.

The problem with the Malaysian variety is that they are not cold hardy and die when water temperatures drop to about 60 degree FF.

Even farmers in southern Florida find they must heat their water in order to carry the Malaysian species through the winter.

Coast crabs seem to pick up a number of the large freshwater shrimp during the spring—indicating to Dr. Anderson that they have no trouble surviving winter water temperatures in the area. One such shrimp picked up near St. Louis last year weighed over a pound and they can go as large as three pounds.

The two varieties under study are easy to recognize

BOOK REVIEWTHREE BIGGEST LIES

When Village Voice "Scenes" columnist Howard Smith ran a contest requesting readers to submit lists of lies for "The Forked Tongue Hall of Fame," he was deluged with falsities and fabrications from Presidential lies like "I am not a crook" to landlord lies like "Don't worry about what is says in the lease; we'll always let you sublet," and Howard Cosell: "Standing next to me is an athlete who's the greatest living legend of our time."

Now, dedicated to the proposition that "Anyone who says he never lies is fibbing," Howard Smith has assembled over 350 quintessential mistruths in his new book The Three Biggest Lies, to be published as a Bantam paperback Original December 1. A one-page excerpt from the book appears in the December Penthouse magazine, on sale in mid November.

Written with the same irreverent wit that has characterized Smith's "Scenes" column for 13 years, and illustrated with line drawings by Bill Woodman, contributing artist to The New Yorker and other magazines. The Three Biggest Lies, rounds up the three major fibs in dozens of categories ranging from parents to the Pentagon, from communist governments to Chinese restaurants.

Important information would include where and when the shrimp were taken, water conditions, etc. Dr. Anderson would especially be interested in live specimens, which he says could be kept in the live well of a boat in water they were taken from.

He or Perry will make an immediate response to calls about such specimens.

"The study is being funded by the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources (formerly the Mississippi Marine Resources Council) of the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Dr. Anderson may be contacted via Southern Station Box 8335, Hattiesburg, MS 39401 or by calling (601) 266-7183.
